AVEDA

Aveda was founded in 1978, when its founder was introduced to the science of Ayurveda – the traditional holistic philosophy of medicine and surgery from India. Aveda was one of the first beauty companies to endorse a set of principles designed to encourage greater environmental responsibility; taking care of guests, while taking care of the environment. The green ingredient promise of Aveda is a continuous process where the aim is to increase the usage of natural ingredients of which at least 50% of the molecules are from plants or another natural source like water. Their professional network, with over 7000 salons and spas worldwide, share their beliefs.
